To whom it may concern,

With immense pleasure, I am submitting this recommendation letter in support of Md Kawsher Mahbub, who is applying to your renowned University's graduate program. I first met Mahbub when I was his Microcontroller and Embedded Systems course lecturer. He is one of the most exceptional individuals I have ever had the pleasure of teaching. Based on my observation, I would say he is attentive and studious, and he has a positive attitude about academics. He is an observant, sharp, and quick individual with a strong problem-solving ability. He has showed a strong interest in practical aided learning techniques throughout his academic career. He was not only engaged in and motivated to study the information, but she also worked hard to integrate it into her own life and establish her own opinions on the project he has done.

Throughout the year, Mahbub was an active participant in our conversations and was always supportive to his peers. Not surprisingly, Mahbub's written work proved to be of the same caliber as his conversation; he received a grade of A+ in my course, and even that seemed inadequate to his accomplishment. I am convinced that he will continue to do things that are distinctive and innovative in the future, and that he will stand out as a unique individual at your university. His insatiable curiosity, along with his willingness to take risks, leads me to feel that his progress and accomplishments in university and beyond will be limitless. As a result, I strongly urge you to consider him for admission to your university and I wish him a bright future as a graduate student, one that reflects his academic achievements thus far.

Sincerely yours,
